"The Best Company for the Policy-Holder."

Testimony from the Right Source— From Business Men of Large Experience with the Leading Life Companies:

HENRY BENEDICT, a manufacturer of Mil- waukee, Wis., after large experience in some of the leading companies, says "The NORTH- WESTERN is the BEST COMPANY FOR THE POLICY- HOLDER now engaged in the business of life insurance."

Another (a prominent business man East) says "The dividends on my policy have not only increased rapidly from year to year but have been LARGER THAN IN ANY OTHER COMPANY in which I am or have been insured. I regard the Northwestern as one of the soundest financial corporations, as well as one of the ablest man- aged life insurance companies in this country, and as such can conscientiously recommend it to the attention of those who desire sound in- surance at the lowest attainable cost."

Similar testimony from the highest sources abundant, and more of it will be given to the public.

HIGH INTEREST RATES, LOWEST DEATH RATIO and GOOD MANAGEMENT are the elements of se- curity and low cost in the NORTHWESTERN.

THE BRIBERY CASE.

Teller and Sherman Measure Lances in the Senate.

URGENCY OF AN INVESTIGATION

The People of Ohio Certain Payne's Election was Secured through Corruption—Newspapers Entitled to Respect

SENATE

WASHINGTON, July 22—The senate bill for a public building at Nebraska City Neb passed

Mr Hale from the conference committee on the naval appropriation bill submitted a report which was agreed to

THE PAYNE BRIBERY CASE AGAIN

The senate then resumed consideration of the Payne case and Teller concluded his remarks commenced yesterday He quoted from the Hoar and Frye report the following paragraph The senate has received and referred to the committee certain resolutions adopted by the convention of the republicans of Ohio held July [illegible] [illegible] the senate to investigate these charges. Newspaper reports of the convention show that the governor of the state was present at the convention and declared his concurrence in said prayer There have also been communicated to us extracts from some of the papers in Ohio showing that [illegible] of these papers have declared their [illegible] was procured by corruption [illegible] extracts are appended

I will not venture Teller continued to comment [illegible] I will not trust myself to express in this body my opinion of an attempt to compel by a political convention of political editors the determination of a judicial question I will leave that for the minority I think I need only to state that I have every honest man in the land affronted I am satisfied from an examination of the testimony that there is no proof of corruption of the members of the legislature and that no proof of it can be obtained by this senate I do not pretend to say that all the methods of Ohio politicians are correct I do not inquire as to what may have been done by them during the campaign or at some other time I confined myself to the question submitted to the committee by the senate On that I have acted On that I am prepared to record my vote and to record it under the solemnities of my oath without regard to the wishes of any man or men unmoved by prejudice or passion by interest or favor unawed by threats uninfluenced by what they say is public opinion"

SHERMAN'S REMARKS

Sherman then proceeded to address the senate Mr Sewell occupying the chair

He rose he said to perform the most disagreeable duty of his life During all the time he had been in this body he had never had occasion to bring before the senate the politics of Ohio as distinguished from national politics In performing what he regarded as a public duty to the people of Ohio and particularly to the republican people of Ohio he would do it in no spirit of unkindness to his colleague He did not think that any of the newspaper extracts read by Mr Logan showed any reflection on their motives As a matter of course newspapers were rude and rough in their language about public men, but if anybody expected better treatment from newspapers he would have to live in a [illegible] remote It was the history of politics that every man in public life must be arraigned by newspapers

"I have myself" Sherman continued "been charged by the newspapers with offenses [illegible] in a senator and I have demanded an investigation It was supposed as a matter of course that when this humble petition was presented there would be no legal quibbles and stratagems to avoid an investigation but that on the assertion by these people of their belief in fraud an investigation would be granted The question is not, however whether the case made by this printed testimony is sufficient to convict The question is whether it is sufficient to excite suspicions Because on suspicion a senator's right to his seat may be investigated And therefore with due deference to the distinguished and eminent gentlemen who have given to this case, no doubt the views of a lawyer and the strictness of a lawyer it seems to me that they have confounded the state of this inquiry It is now an inquiry only in the hands of a committee of this body to advise us whether or not in these papers or in anything which can be produced corruption is or can be shown Then the inquiry goes on Final judgment however is only arrived at when we shall have considered the testimony and when with grave and deliberate justice and with kindness which we always show to our colleagues we will proceed to render our judgment I can say to you in conclusion that we believe and mainly on statements made by the democratic editors and democratic citizens that there has been fraud and corruption in the election of my colleague That is the belief generally [illegible] in the state of Ohio, and we ask you to make such an inquiry as will satisfy your conscience whether that charge is true or false If it is true you alone are judges If it is false you cannot punish the men who started these charges but you can vindicate the men who have been unjustly accused

Eustis spoke in support of the majority report He did not find that the circumstances of the Ohio investigation whose results had been reported to the senate were such as to show that the investigation had been guided by those just and fair principles of evidence that prevailed generally in this country

This was the first time when it was ever urged in the senate of the United States that it should not examine into the character and conduct of an election and into the qualifications of its members and when a great state of 3 000 000 of people comes here through its organs and asserts its belief that the election of a United States senator had been tainted with fraud and corruption It will not do for the senate or for a member of the committee on privileges and elections to say 'We do not believe that you have shown evidence enough You have not convicted the rascals who participated in this offense' You cannot move half the population of a great state like Ohio unless there is something fearful behind it. It is not arguments and attacks of newspapers that are behind this movement It is fear—I might say conviction—that their most sacred right of representation has been tampered with by corruption

Referring to the latter's remark as to the resolution Sherman said "The senate of the United States can never put itself so high that even a petition of the humblest citizen black or white, must not be received by it with respect and when a respectable body of men like these editors send you a petition in plain and not offensive words it cannot be treated as an affront, even if it does not harmonize exactly with the opinion of a senator on this floor"

THE VOTE POSTPONED

The chair (Mr Sewell) announced the question to be on the adoption of the report of the majority of the committee

Hearn [illegible] the minority report [illegible] an investigation be adopted [illegible] Frye in supporting the minority report said the question was whether bribery and corruption had been used and not whether the senator from Ohio had himself been a participant in it. In conclusion he said "The United States can engage in no higher no better no more responsible duty than to put itself to a work the result of which might be a warning and a terrible warning sounding from East to West and from North to South that this corruption by great wealth must stop now and forever" A vote will be taken at 2 o'clock to morrow Adjourned

HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, July 22—Hatch of Missouri, from the committee on agriculture, reported back as a matter of privilege the oleomargarine bill with the senate amendments The speaker held that the report was not a privileged one and declined to entertain it

Herbert of Alabama rose to call up the naval increase bill, but fearing the friends of the oleomargarine bill would unite and vote against him withdrew it for the present and the speaker proceeded to call the committees for reports when the following were submitted

By Hooker of Virginia from the committee on judiciary calling upon the attorney general for information as to what action was taken under the joint resolution approved April 10, 1869 for protection of the interests of the United States, in the Union Pacific and Central Pacific railroads House calendar

THE OLEOMARGARINE BILL

By Mr Hatch of Missouri of the committee on agriculture the oleomargarine bill with senate amendments and with a recommendation that they be non concurred It was referred to the committee of the whole, where it takes its place at the foot of the calendar, and where it can only be reached by laying aside the Morrison and Randall tariff bills and one or two internal revenue bills

Mr Herbert again called up the special order and Mr Hatch again raised the question of consideration desiring to move to go into committee of the whole for consideration of the oleomargarine bill

The house refused to consider the navy increase bill or the interstate commerce bill and then went into committee of the whole on the revenue bill The object being to reach the oleomargarine bill the Morrison tariff bill giving notice of the termination of the Hawaiian treaty and the bills referring to [illegible] were laid aside The committee then rose and the house adjourned

CONGRESSIONAL CHITCHAT

THE FABRA AND WEIL CLAIMS

WASHINGTON, July 22 The long pending [illegible] and Weil claims were to day [illegible] of by the foreign affairs committee of the house to-day The resolution with regard to the Fabra claim will be reported adversely by Representative [illegible] as that committee refuses to sanction its reopening

OREGON MATTERS

WASHINGTON July 22—The bill providing for the erection of a public building in Portland Oregon has been reported from the committee on public buildings with an amendment cutting the amount from $600,000 to $350,000 A number of Oregon bridge bills have passed both houses and are now in the hands of the president They are the bill authorizing the city of Salem to construct a bridge across the Willamette Dolph's bill authorizing the construction of the Astoria and Winnemucca bridge The bill authorizing the construction of a bridge at Hay's Landing and the bill authorizing Clatsop county to bridge Young's bay and Skipanon creek near Astoria city

RIVER AND HARBOR TALK

WASHINGTON July 22—The conference committee on the river and harbor bill have had several meetings which have been devoted to a discussion of the items of the bill with a view of reaching a definite result There is a prospect that the 25 per cent. reduction will be accepted by the house conferees but there will be a hitch over the Sandy Hook Hennepin canal Potomac flats Sturgeon bay and Portage lake canal items

THE DILKE SCANDAL

Captain Foster also Morally Unclean—Disgusting Nature of the Case.

LONDON July 22—Captain Foster was a witness in the Crawford Dilke divorce case to day He admitted that he had been guilty of adultery with Mrs Crawford He once quarreled with Sir Charles called him a liar scoundrel and coward because he [illegible] attempted to discover the relations between Mrs Crawford and the witness He also attempted to thrash Sir Charles, but [illegible] at Mrs Rogerson's entreaty

Mrs Rogerson was here recalled She denied the statement just made by Captain Foster

Matthews then addressed the jury in behalf of the petitioner Crawford whom the lawyer described as the only one who emerged clean from amidst this plentiful throwing of the foulest mud" The lawyer ridiculed Dilke's reasons for remaining silent during the process of the trial when there was produced against him strong damaging evidence of actual adultery Matthews did not [illegible] He described things in the vernacular with [illegible] to Dilke who [illegible] livid with rage and twice jumped to his feet and essayed to speak at which the judge prevented him from doing so

Matthews, continuing referred with intense [illegible] to the Frenchified Sloan street orgies, and said that a man who was not so brutalized as to be lost in [illegible] as Sir Charles had committed them. What [illegible] the lawyer [illegible] the Fanny who is accused of sharing in these orgies while this young married woman who was betrayed and degraded. It to them is being held up to infamy before the whole English speaking world for ministering to the [illegible] of Dilke Fanny has vanished She dared not appear before this jury Commenting upon the apparent present lack of sensibility confessed by Mrs Crawford Matthews said "Doubtless the last spark of [illegible] in Mrs Crawford expired after the visit she made to Dilke's house"

The allegation of conspiracy has completely failed I ask the jury to endorse the judge's decree made in the former trial I ask the jury to release Donald Crawford from the tie which yet binds him to a life of shame and misery [Applause]

Sir Walter Phillimore on behalf of the queen's proctor, followed Matthews Sir Walter contended that unless Donald Crawford proved his wife had committed adultery with Sir Charles he was not entitled to a decree of divorce from her In the present case because the commission of adultery with the co respondent was the particular and sole ground on which a divorce was asked Crawford might obtain a divorce on the ground of his wife's adultery with Capt Foster as shown in this trial but he would have to obtain it by bringing another action in which Capt Foster was co-respondent Not a single witness had sworn to either seeing Mrs Crawford go in or leave Sir Charles's houses, although it was always crowded with officials and friends Every gentlemanly feeling had restrained Sir Charles from going upon the stand and testifying during the previous trial There was a dark stain upon his life and he was unwilling to submit himself to a process of examination which would be directed towards making an exposure concerning Mrs Eustace Smith Mrs Crawford's mother The absence of Fanny Sir Walter argued could be similarly accounted for She doubtless had a dark stain upon her life and it was enough to keep her out of the witness box." Concerning Mrs Crawford Sir Walter said the evidence showed she had been badly reared and that she was a most bold and abandoned woman

The jury was visibly impressed by Matthews's crushing oration Court adjourned until to morrow when Sir Walter will conclude his address.

MEXICO.

THE AMERICAN EDITOR IN JAIL

EL PASO Texas July 22—In regard to the case of Cutting, the American editor who is confined in a Mexican jail at Paso del Norte for having caused to be published in an El Paso paper an article which attacked a rival Mexican editor of Paso del Norte the following dispatch has gone over the wires to Washington

Hon T F Bayard Washington—The Mexican government refuses to give up Cutting Wire for further instructions JACKSON, Minister

The guard around the jail in which Cutting is confined has been strengthened and in addition to [illegible] from Chihuahua it is learned to day that a special train is on its way up the Mexican Central railway with reinforcements for the Paso del Norte garrison The excitement is intense here and down at Chihuahua. Paso del Norte was at a fever heat last night and the authorities pretended to fear an attack all night The garrison was kept under arms and every man who could bear arms was pressed into service They patrolled the streets in large bands all night At midnight when these warlike preparations were going on Cutting was aroused from his sleep and ordered to dress He was taken before the Mexican judge Castenada and informed that an order had been received from the supreme court of Chihuahua ordering him to be admitted to bail Cutting declined this saying he was in the hands of his government and would do nothing except by direction of the American consul, who advised Cutting to ignore the local judge altogether This morning Cutting was called up and asked by Judge Castenada "Where do you reside" He replied he was an American but resided in Paso del Norte He was asked his object in appealing to the United States government Cutting replied that he ignored the judge and his court altogether—he was then taken back to jail

ENGLAND

PARNELL STILL A BIG MAN

LONDON July 22—It is positively stated in tory quarters that influential supporters of Lord Salisbury strongly favor an alliance with the nationalists and the appointment of Parnell as Irish chief secretary That such movement is being [illegible] promoted there can be no doubt but the responsible leaders decline to acknowledge the existence of the scheme Great pressure will be brought to bear on Salisbury to countenance the movement If he allows it to go on the party organs will be authorized to sound public opinion on the subject

New York's Capital Celebrating its Bicentennial.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND ATTENDS

The People Demand from him a Speech and he Makes a Few Humorous Remarks—An Enthusiastic Gathering

ALBANY July 22—Albanians have given the city [illegible] to the task of celebrating the incorporation of the city by Governor Dongan just 200 years ago The uproar that broke [illegible] midnight when the bells announced the arrival of the anniversary continued till daylight [illegible] went up the principal streets blowing horns and singing until morning Thousands and thousands remained up through the night and were as ready and eager [illegible] The arrival of President Cleveland was the first important event of the day The time fixed for his coming [illegible] Before that hour the Burgesses corps marched to the West Shore depot and drew up [illegible] for the coming train [illegible] the city officials were drawn [illegible] Without the lines formed by the militia stood 500 or 600 citizens who had come to welcome the president A few minutes after the expected [illegible] the depot Mayor Thatcher and several of the university committee boarded the train and [illegible] greetings with the president [illegible] Mayor Thatcher on behalf of the city [illegible] The president greeted his friends [illegible] Secretaries Bayard and Whitney and Private Secretary Lamont were also [illegible] party,

THE PRESIDENT'S GREETING.

The party were immediately escorted to the [illegible] in waiting Before entering the carriage [illegible] with Mayor Thatcher President Cleveland was warmly greeted by an old farmer from [illegible] county who broke through the [illegible] and clasped the president's hand

"Well this is Grover" he exclaimed

"Yes sir" answered the president, smiling [illegible]

The Burgess corps at once took up the line of march and the presidential party were driven to the governor's mansion On the arrival of the visitors at the executive mansion Governor Hill received them as his guests

After the governor and his guests had been [illegible] President Cleveland accompanied by [illegible] Lamont went to Secretary Manning's residence to call upon him Cleveland and Manning remained in conversation for an hour and then the former returned to the governor's mansion. At 10 30 escorted by the mayor and members of the anniversary reception committee the president Secretaries Bayard and Whitney and [illegible] Lamont, left the executive mansion and were driven down State street to take their places in the procession A few minutes later Gov Hill escorted by members of the reception committee was also driven down to take the place reserved for him

THE PROCESSION

[illegible] imposing President Cleveland rode in an open carriage with Secretary Whitney and held his hat while he bowed acknowledgements to the cheers that accompanied his progress [illegible] still followed and behind them rode the governor in a carriage Immediately after the procession the president Gov Hill, Secretaries Whitney and Bayard and the other distinguished men went to the large rink at Lark street which was already packed by an audience gathered to hear Gov Hill's oration and the musical and literary exercises Gov Hill spoke at length on Albany's history

CLEVELAND MAKES A SPEECH

When Governor Hill had concluded his speech and the applause had subsided Mayor Thatcher attempted to announce the next thing on the programme but his voice was drowned by cries of "Cleveland" "Cleveland" The president arose bowed and sat down again on the platform beside the governor This did not satisfy the audience, and the calls were renewed with vigor Finally he arose and, advancing to the front of the platform said

"Citizens of Albany I come here to day as an invited guest to a family reunion I desire to be a guest and not mingle too freely in the congratulations and celebrations which belong more properly to you I do not wish to sound a single note of discord but I have heard so much of the Dutch, of this being a Dutch city, so much talk of ye olden time and of its customs that when I remember that I dwelt two years among you I wonder whether I am in the right place or not At the risk of creating discord I feel I must say that in my time Dutch was not the language of the town People spoke English and to me words of kindness in English that I will never forget I am glad however that you have got your charter When I lived here it was, I think, under a charter but according to my remembrance it was a charter passed by the legislature of the state in the first year I spent here and approved by me I must not delay you longer, but I cannot refrain from expressing to you my appreciation of the kindness with which you have received me and in repeating the homely and old fashioned wish May the citizens of Albany and their descendants enjoy many happy returns of the day"

BAYARD AND WHITNEY CALLED UPON

The president spoke in clear ringing tones that were audible in every portion of the large building, and his brief remarks were received with enthusiasm and applause When he sat down the audience called upon Bayard for a speech who spoke briefly and in an appropriate manner

Secretary Whitney also spoke briefly At the conclusion of the exercises the president, Secretaries Whitney and Bayard and others, accompanied by Secretary Manning, drove to the executive mansion and dined with the governor

THE ANARCHISTS.

A Reporter who Followed the Dynamiters to their Den and Wormed out their Secrets

CHICAGO July 22—Judge Gary's courtroom was crowded as usual this morning when M P Williamson formerly a reporter for the Daily News was called to the stand Williamson testified that he knew Parsons Spies and Fielden and on the night the new board of trade building was opened [illegible] was detailed to follow the socialistic procession. It broke at the office of the Arbeiter Zeitung and Spies Fielden and Parsons addressed the crowd from the window Parsons was the first speaker He called the police bloodhounds and servants of the robbing capitalists He called the crowd to follow him and attack several clothing houses Marshall Field's store being mentioned, and help themselves to what they called the necessities of life Fielden said the same thing He offered to lead the mob in an attack on the store

What was said about the new board of trade building"

Both speakers said the building was put up out of money stolen from them Every one who did business there was a robber and thief" The witness then went up stairs into the office Parsons was asked by the reporter why the socialists did not march upon the board of trade, and he said the police would prevent it "Well but your party have revolvers what preparation further do you need" asked Williamson "The time has not come yet" was the reply. "When the time does come we will meet the police with dynamite and bombs"

"When did he say the time would come"

"Some time during the year"

Parsons gave witness a practical illustration of what he meant and showed him a cell and fulminating caps There was also a quantity of dynamite they kept in a drawer Parsons called for them and Spies got them Parsons said the explosives were kept on hand in preparation for the war that was impending, that the laboring man was being robbed by the scoundrelly board of trade men and others The manner of warfare was to hurl bombs from the housetops and in that way they could annihilate any force of police or militia that could be assembled This conversation took place with Parsons and Fielden standing by

THE REVENGE CIRCULARS

The first witnesses called in the afternoon were Officers Jones McKeough and Flynn They testified to the finding of several thousand copies of the Revenge circulars in the office of the Arbeiter Zeitung A great many copies of other circulars calling on workingmen to arm were found at the same place Several pounds of dynamite in one package were also discovered Officer McKeough testified that he was in the Arbeiter Zeitung office about an hour before Spies's arrest He saw the package produced lying open and exposed to view Particularly pointed testimony regarding the finding of dynamite materials in the Arbeiter Zeitung office was given by Officer Flynn John J Ryan a retired officer of the United States navy was the next witness He had heard Spies Parsons, Fielden Schwab and Neibe speak at Sunday afternoon meetings on the lake front Parsons declared to the crowd that the police and constituted authorities were the natural enemies of workingmen He advised each individual present to purchase a rifle If money enough could not be had for a rifle, let him buy a pistol Then let him remember that he could get enough dynamite for 25 cents to blow up a building the size of Pullman's headquarters Mrs Parsons added the witness, pointing to her and covering the gaze of the court upon her upturned half Indian half negress yellow face [illegible] "Mrs Parsons was one of the most violent of the speakers"

DYNAMITE BOMBS IN STOCK

Wilkinson a Daily News reporter, testified to having a number of conversations with Spies in January Witness saw Spies with a small round bomb, the exact duplicate of the one exploded in the Haymarket Spies described it as the "czar" and went on to tell of its superior destructive power Several thousand had been manufactured in Chicago. They were sometimes distributed through the Arbeiter Zeitung office but generally only kept there for samples.

The defense made futile attempts to place the witness in a ridiculous light and the day's proceedings came to an end

GRANT

To-day is the anniversary of the death of Grant. When the whole world a year ago hung anxiously over the great soldier's pillow and read the daily record of his hopeless death struggle it was finely said of him in the words of Kent over the dying Lear

Vex not his ghost. O let him pass
He hates him that upon the rack of this tough world
Would stretch him out longer.

The romance of Grant's career was completed in that last sad chapter where he fairly tasted of death and then was transiently restored to have his heart cheered by eloquent words of love and praise that are seldom spoken in the ears of the living In those four months of respite his dying hours were soothed by the knowledge that the nation, North and South, sincerely admired and respected him out of a larger knowledge of the simple strength and kindliness of his character than it had possessed before That he was a great soldier we all knew, for Lee and Johnston had as warmly eulogized his genius as Sherman, Sheridan and Hancock; that he was a large man, of noble and even tender spirit, was not so clearly manifest until sickness, sorrow and public sympathy made the grim soldier drop something of the reserve in which he habitually held his speech and his soul He did not probably suffer more than Napoleon, who died of cancer of the stomach but he was more patient and genial during his long agony than was the hero of Austerlitz, and he died guiltless of having shed a drop of blood for the sake of personal glory or self aggrandizement. He was the hero of the greatest battle for the perpetuity of free institutions the world ever saw

We have called his career romantic. There is nothing in military annals equal to it, since Cromwell, when we consider that Grant was nearly 40 years of age before he as colonel of the Twenty-first Illinois regiment started for the front in June, 1861, utterly obscure, and returned the greatest soldier of American history and the greatest soldier of the century, save Napoleon. And this he attained without family or political influence without wealth, without personal graces or social charm No soldier since Cromwell seems to have conquered circumstances so completely by native genius for war.

Grant cannot be solved by those writers who try to fathom the secret of greatness by dogging every man of genius back to his school desk The secret of genius eludes all explanation through books and schools as completely as the sheen on the scarlet lip of the cardinal flower does the analysis of the artist. As somebody has said, "the really great things of the world are accomplished without special effort and always without careful preparation" The superiority of Grant was not more his superior ability than it was his simple patriotism He was not in search of fame for Grant, but of success for the flag, and he struck the enemy unceasingly, allowing himself no breathing spell, giving the enemy no rest to rally or recruit, and in his simplicity of purpose, without primarily looking for reputation, he was always finding it and always risking its loss where he found it.

Superior strength of character as well as superior military genius was Grant's advantage over such men as McClellan Rosecrans, Hooker, Meade and Buell Gen Buell an able soldier, could marshal an army with great tactical skill for battle, but lacked Grant's quality of pitiless resolution which instantly orders the onset. It was not a lack of intellect it was a human defect in an otherwise sound and strong military character The enormous energy and iron resolution of Grant was the rock on which his military genius rested To illustrate, McClellan struck Lee's 40,000 men at Antietam, a field fight, with 8[illegible]0 and only made a drawn battle Grant, with 110 000 men struck Lee's 70,000 behind the fortified lines at Petersburg carried them, dispersed and captured the whole army in a week. The Antietam campaign, including Harper's Ferry cost us 25 000 men Grant, in twelve days of constant battle from the 5th to the 18th of May, 1864, (Wilderness and Spottsylvania) lost 27 000 men, but inflicted such severe losses upon the enemy that they stood on the defensive from the Wilderness until they surrendered in the last ditch McClellan's failure and retreat cost us relatively more than Grant's bitter and bloody road to victory. Sherman did a great work and did it well, but Grant clearly pulled the laboring oar when he took on himself the tremendous job of pounding Lee's army to powder and holding his head in chancery while Sherman pursued his military "cake walk" through Georgia and the Carolinas

Grant was underestimated for many years after the war, and Sherman was overestimated, because the people forgot that Grant's vice like grasp on Lee's throat made Sherman's military picnics possible When Lee faced Meade in September, 1863, he was permitted to re enforce Bragg with Longstreet and defeat Rosecrans, but Grant never gave him a chance to re-enforce Johnston and whip Sherman

Personally, Grant was a simple hearted, manly magnanimous man magnanimous to Sherman and McPherson, when he ascribes his success to their able and loyal support magnanimous [illegible] to Hancock, when he [illegible] his name for promotion with a warm endorsement [illegible] rupture between them [illegible] his father he was [illegible] to the verge [illegible] career [illegible] temperate [illegible] also true [illegible] in his after life [illegible] bore himself [illegible] Called a silent man [illegible] form [illegible] superior power [illegible] statesman [illegible] to the [illegible] commend [illegible] was a [illegible] or [illegible] plied to him [illegible] a year [illegible] boy [illegible] the pa[illegible] see every battle-scarred soldier who followed him to final victory or marched gaily with Sherman singing his way down to the sea, mourned sincerely for his great commander who blew the bugle call to rally at Shiloh and was a rock of resolution in the Wilderness

PROHIBITION TALK

The Prohibitionist wants the republican party to "step aside," to "disband and give the prohibitionists a fair, square chance at the democrats" And it proceeds to say

The democratic party stands for the non progressive element of America. It labors for no reforms but on the contrary seeks to obstruct the onward progress of humanity This conservative character is a matter of pride with its leaders, although why it should be passeth understanding. That the democratic party will become the upholder supporter defender and apologist for the saloon and liquor traffic is now almost conceded and sometimes in a boastful spirit asserted by its leaders That as certainly as it does so it will sink into disgrace for years is as sure as the fate that befell it when it placed its body athwart the path of human progress and staked its all on the sacredness of human slavery

Again, the Star, in summing up "what has been accomplished by the prohibitionists of Oregon," says that the activity of the third party in calling early conventions and forcing the issue of prohibition to the front caused both the old parties in state convention assembled to declare in favor of the submission of the pending constitutional amendment. This was a great step in advance of anything ever before accomplished at this stage of the agitation by the people of any Northern state." Further

The fact that the prohibition party was actively in the field led throughout the state, a few counties possibly excepted, to the nomination of temperance men by the old parties The influence of the saloon was broken to the extent that no candidate could think of treating publicly at the bar and election times did not prove the rich harvest for the saloons as formerly

In still another article the prohibition organ, after congratulating its party that so much has been gained, says

Yet we are asked to disband in order that we may have the privilege and honor of belonging to one of the two old parties who dare espouse no living issue We are asked to disband and enlist in a party whose machinery is managed by Jo Simon its chairman was debauched in the liquor interest On the other hand we are asked to disband and to join a political party whose national convention thunders anti sumptuary "legislation No thank you by the eternal verities claiming our rights as American citizens and acknowledging our duty to our country we propose the organization of a political party that believes the liquor traffic the greatest curse of the nation and has the courage to utter its belief in words as hard as cannon balls That's where we stand

We judge from various signs that the brethren are there to stay, for a while at least.

SALMON

The salmon fishing season which ends with this month has not been prosperous. The pack will be smaller than that of any recent year and it is a question if the whole return to the cannerymen for the season will compensate the whole expense of the season At this time of course it cannot be known precisely what the pack will be, but the most intelligent estimates put it at from 430,000 to 440,000 cases. This, compared with 600,000 cases last year and upwards of 600 000 cases in 1884, is a serious falling off, and indicates if it does not positively demonstrate that the salmon supply is failing During former years the catch has been variable, some days better and some days worse but never until this year has there been a season without a specially heavy run of a week or more before the 20th of July But since this season opened the fishing has been bad without variation.

The shortness of the pack naturally affects the price, but cannerymen find little satisfaction in an advancing market, since most of them contracted the season's pack in advance at the prices which prevailed during the winter The bulk of the year's work thus goes into the hands of middlemen and speculators at rates ranging from three dollars and fifty cents to four dollars and five cents per case, though five dollars per case is now eagerly offered, with the situation favorable for still higher prices in the near future It is estimated that at the end of the season only 75,000 cases will remain for sale on the river in the hands of the packers.

The season has been hard on the cannerymen because it costs nearly as much to put up a small as a large pack The difference is simply that of labor, cans and fish, since the outlay for boats, nets, machinery, steamboat service, superintendence and management is precisely the same for a bad year as for a good one If the cannerymen had not contracted their product, if they were in a condition to profit by the improved market occasioned by the short supply, then the hardships of the year would nearly be compensated, but under the circumstances, times are hard with them

The most notable circumstance of the year, apart from the decline in the run, has been the development of the Eastern market. Formerly nearly the whole product of the Columbia river was marketed in England and the colonies, but this year the home market, which has been a small taker for several years becomes an almost equal buyer with England Since the season opened an average of ten carloads per day, each containing 325 cases, has gone east by rail and there is much yet to go The method of the Eastern market has been "from hand to mouth,"—that is purchases have been small to meet immediate demands There are no stocks, hence the sudden and rapid advance since it was found that the supply was shorter than usual The English market, made cautious by false reports of short supply in former years, has not yet responded to the situation, but it is only a matter of time when it will do so It is the opinion of men of good judgment and who have watched the salmon market in its fluctuations for many years, that prices will go considerably beyond the $5 per case now ruling

The necessity of taking steps to keep up the salmon supply is now more than ever apparent. It is a necessity that cries aloud We cannot go on much longer reaping where we do not sow In a few more years, if nothing is done, the annual salmon runs will cease and an industry which brings into the state each year nearly three millions of dollars of foreign money will die out It is worth while to see how vast this interest is and how widespread its benefits are It employs 2[illegible]00 white men in various capacities It employs 2500 Chinese It employs fifteen tugs and steamboats and makes business for half a dozen more employed regularly in the traffic of the river It employs besides hundreds of boat makers, sail makers and net weavers It is the basis of the prosperity of the city of Astoria and attracts much of our foreign commerce Indirectly its benefits reach every business and nearly every person in the state of Oregon And is such an industry as this to be permitted to die out for the want of a few thousand dollars a year spent in artificial propagation?

PROPOSED LOCAL RAILROADS

There is just now a great deal of railroad talk in the Walla Walla country The people, or many of them have gotten the notion that their salvation depends upon connection with the Northern Pacific, and two companies have been organized to bring this about Dr Baker, whose little narrow gauge road of fourteen miles runs out south of Walla Walla has a plan to extend it to Wallula, by paralleling the Oregon Railway and Navigation company's line This scheme is likely to be carried out It certainly will be if Dr Baker is in earnest in the matter for he is abundantly able, financially, to accomplish all that is proposed It is whispered at Walla Walla, however, that the scheme is simply an artful one to enable Dr Baker to sell out a property [illegible] and investing the [illegible] investments. The other scheme, which is a more serious one, originated in the Walla Walla board of trade The proposition is to build a standard gauge road north west from Walla Walla, out through the Eureka flat country, connecting at the Snake river crossing with the Northern Pacific The length of the proposed line [illegible] but extended by its way [illegible] through Eureka flat, is about fifty miles A company has been organized, and it is given out that it has abundant backing There is however, a mysterious reticence about the matter nobody having been able as yet to find out just who or what the "backing" consists of We hope that these enterprises will be accomplished, and that the country will find in them the relief it seeks but we must confess a slender faith in local schemes which are too big to be carried out with local capital Too often they represent little more than local enthusiasm and commonly they come to nothing

The tugboat Pioneer, owned by the Portland "Board of Trade" company and now in operation on the Columbia river bar, cost $19,000 delivered at Astoria The tugboat Gen Miles, owned by the Ilwaco Steam Navigation company and built at Astoria two years ago, cost $47 000 The state could not buy or build a tug suitable for service on the bar for less than $50,000, and it would cost $10,000 more to provide her with all necessary facilities An enterprise of this kind could not be managed by the state free from jobbery All experience proves it. Nor would it be proper for the state to go into the business of operating tugboats on the bar any more than to operate steamboats on the Columbia and Willamette rivers These things are matters of business and can safely be left to private enterprise All that the state needs to do is to see to it that rates for towage and pilotage are reasonably cheap, and this it can do easily in connection with Washington territory

Reviewing the action of the committee of the senate in the Payne case, the New York Times says "Virtually the committee stands seven to two against doing anything to ascertain whether seats in the senate have been secured by purchase or not, and therefore against doing anything to discourage that method of obtaining seats."

A HISTORIC PARALLEL

Wellington like Grant, rose to military fame rather late in life Before he went to Spain he had beaten the Mahrattas at Assaye and been victorious in the campaign which ended in the capture of Seringapatam and the death of Tippoo, sultan of Mysore, but his first victory over trained European soldiery was won over Napoleon's veterans, under Junot, at Vimiera in 1808, when he was 40 years of age his last battle was fought in 1815, when he was 47 Grant won his first victory at Donelson when he was 40 years of age his last battle was in 1865, when he was but 43 years of age. Wellington won all his fame in less than eight years Grant in less than four Wellington survived Waterloo thirty-seven years, dying in 1852 at the age of 84 Grant survived Appomattox a little more than twenty years, dying at 63 Wellington was called at a critical time to the head of the British ministry in 1828 and Grant was president of the United States from 1869 to 1877, a period of political heat and stress that would have severely tried the ablest, most adroit statesman in American politics Neither of these great men enjoyed personal popularity during their lives, neither of them achieved success as political administrators both outwore their first popularity as patriotic soldiers with the noisy crowd long before they died, and yet their deaths, though naturally looked for long before the announcement, created profound public emotion The reason for this profound feeling over men utterly lacking in the superficial qualities of popularity is well set forth by Justin McCarthy in his remarks on the death of Wellington We quote as follows

He was hardly anything as a statesman he knew little and cared less about statecraft and as an administrator he made many mistakes, but the trust which the nation had in him was absolutely unlimited It never entered the mind of anybody to suppose that the Duke of Wellington was actuated in any step he took or advice he gave by any feeling but a desire for the good of the state This simple fidelity stood him often instead of exalted statesmanship and enabled him to extricate the government and the nation from difficulties in which a political insight far more keen than his might have failed to prove a guide

It was for this true and tried this simple and unswerving devotion to the national good that the people of England admired and revered him He had not what would be called a lovable temperament and yet the nation loved him He was cold and brusque in manner, and seemed in general to have barely a gleam of the emotional in him This was not because he lacked affections On the contrary his affections and his friendships were warm and enduring and even in public he had more than once given way to outbursts of emotion such as a stranger would never have expected from one of that cold and rigid demeanor But in his ordinary bearing there was little of the manner that makes a man a popular idol He was not brilliant or dashing emotional or graceful. He was dry cold self contained Yet the people loved him and trusted him loved him perhaps especially because they so trusted him

Substitute in this extract the name of Grant for Wellington, and you have an admirable picture of the civic, social and moral estimate of the hero of Vicksburg held by the mass of his countrymen McCarthy describes Wellington as unquestionably the inferior of Napoleon in original genius for war, and says that his success was in a great measure due to "a sort of inspired common sense, which rose to something like genius" Does not this read as if it was written to describe Grant's peculiar military traits that compelled success? Grant in his "Memoirs" confesses his natural distaste for war When he left West Point his ambition was to leave the army and become a professor of mathematics The Mexican war offended his moral sense of international justice, and he gave his services to the nation in 1861 from motives of high duty and patriotism Neither Wellington or Grant loved war, except when the call to arms was a summons for a national defense or self-preservation a dreadful necessity a repulsive last resort. Wellington said, "The most terrible thing to a humane soldier, next to a great defeat, is a great victory" Grant hated war so cordially, except when it was the military effort of the flag of the free to maintain its exulting spread, that he refused, whenever possible all invitations to great military parades in Europe Wellington viewed war "as a stern duty to be done for his sovereign and his country, to be got through with as quickly as possible" and this sentence again describes Grant as a great and stern soldier, because, and only because he was a great and stern patriot. "The simple steadfast devotion to duty which inspired Wellington always made him seem dignified and great, even in statesmanship, for which he was unfitted, and even when he was acting in a manner that would have made another man seem ridiculous rather than respectable" This, too, might have been written for Grant, so well does it explain the respect always felt for him by those who, right or wrong, did not always approve his statesmanship

The following passage from Mr McCarthy's tribute to Wellington reads as if it might have followed the funeral exercises of Grant

The nation was not ungrateful It heaped honors on Wellington, it would have heaped more on him if it had known how It gave him its almost unqualified admiration On his death it tried to give him such a public funeral as hero never had The pageant was indeed a splendid and a gorgeous exhibition It was not perhaps very well suited to the temperament and habits of the cold and simple hero to whose honor it was got up But in the vast silent respectful crowd that thronged the London streets a crowd such as no other city in the world could show there was better evidence than pageantry or ceremonial could supply of the esteem in which the living generation held the hero of the last The name of Wellington had long ceased to represent any hostility of nation to nation They honored Wellington only as one who had always served his country as the soldier of England and not as the invader of France or [illegible] as the conqueror of Napoleon The homage to his memory was as pure of selfish passion as his own career

O & C LANDS

OREGON & CALIFORNIA RAILROAD COMPANY,
MANAGER'S OFFICE,
PORTLAND Or July 2[illegible] 1886

F M Carr[illegible] [illegible] Forest Grove, Or —Dear Sir: In replying to your communication [illegible] printed in the morning OREGONIAN I desire to say

The company has paid all demands for moneys received by it under contracts for sale of lands situated within the forfeited portion of the Oregon Central grant

It has given deeds for all lands sold pertaining to the Oregon Central grant for which full payment has been made except for such lands as are situate in the quadrant of twenty five miles north northwest and west of Forest Grove with the latter point as the center of the circle

As to these lands no statement was made at the meeting referred to in your communication to the effect that we were quite certain of the company's ability to give deeds in a short time but it was claimed that we considered the company's claim to these lands undoubtedly well founded in law and that the company expected to maintain its right to such lands before the courts if necessary and I still so state

By circular letter of October 30 188[illegible] the parties interested were advised of the dissolution of the preliminary injunction against the register and receiver of the land office at Oregon City and of the application by me to the general land office for a modification of the order of Commissioner Sparks shortly thereafter another application for modification was forwarded by me to the secretary of the interior I have frequently called the attention of the interior department to this pending matter and personally urged it in April last when at Washington Assistant Secretary Jenks promised prompt attention to the matter as soon as it would come before him but at the time when the petition was sent from the office of Commissioner Sparks with his report to the office of the secretary of the interior which was on May 3 1886 Assistant Secretary Jenks had resigned The new assistant secretary to whom as I understand cases of that character are referred has not acted upon it I have quite recently again urged the matter

I am advised that it is not proper for me to ask permission to institute legal proceedings before the remedies given by the rules of the administration are exhausted Should the decision of the secretary of the interior be in opposition to our views I shall apply to the court for instructions Yours very truly R KOEHLER Receiver

SEASIDE POETRY

BY THE SEA

Tis sweet to wander on the sand
And hear the music of the band
To fish remote from vulgar view
Catch minnows and pneumonia too
To have your biceps firmly placed
About a pretty maiden's waist
In short to have a jollier time
Than can be writ in prose or rhyme
But hopes are sadly rent asunder
For the whole business costs like thunder

ON THE BEACH

I am feeling rather nettled
For I thought it all was settled
And that happiness was quite within my reach
As I sat with Arabella
Oh such a happy feller
Under her umbrella
On the beach

As I said I'm feeling nettled,
For I fear it isn't settled
And I'm longing now to tear my hair and screech
For there sits my Arabella
And she's got some other feller
Under her umbrella,
Out of reach

Remarkable Escape.

WM HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS which benefited me I continued until I took nine bottles I am now in perfect health having used no other medicine

The river pilots have been taking soundings at St. Helens, Walker's island and Martin's island bars. They find the water at the latter places about the same as last year, twenty feet on a spring tide. At St. Helens they report 18½ feet with the river to fall six feet. They say the St. Helens bar must be sluiced again, and the sooner the better.

Last Thursday evening Henry Nachard, of Oregon City, was attacked by a bull, which knocked him down, gored him in the side, breaking two ribs and otherwise injuring him. The result might have been more serious but for the interference of two young men, who came to his assistance and rescued him from his perilous position.

Yaquina bay now attracts attention, and those going over want to feel assured that all will be well once they get there. The house referred to has been placed in thorough repair, and accommodations made for a largely increased travel. The proprietor goes one better than all the coast hotels. Here is what he writes: "The tables are supplied with all the clams, crabs, oysters and fish that Yaquina bay and the Pacific ocean contains." Any house can beat this we want to hear from them. Mr. and Mrs. Stanton run the Ocean house.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

A BRUTE OF A FARMER.—A party of ladies and gentlemen from this city visited Vancouver a few days since, accompanied by some Eastern people as guests, to witness dress parade at the garrison. They were treated by the ladies and officers of the garrison and the citizens of Vancouver with great hospitality, and enjoyed themselves very much. But on the way home a disagreeable incident happened which somewhat spoiled their pleasure. When they had returned to this side of the river they started along up a road on the river bank in search of some pretty spot where they might have a picnic. They had not gone far till they were informed by a farmer that if they went further they would probably find it impossible to get their team and vehicle turned around. They accordingly stopped, and asked the farmer if there was any grove or nook on his place where they could spread their luncheon, at the same time offering to pay him for the use of it. They were churlishly refused any accommodation. The driver then undertook to turn his outfit around, but having four lively horses and a long wagon, found it a difficult job. The party alighted, and the ladies wished to step inside of the fence to be out of the way of the horses, but they were rudely and impolitely refused admittance. The driver, finding it impossible to turn around without danger of backing his wagon off the bank into the river, asked that a set of bars be removed and his leaders allowed to pass through while he was turning. This favor was also refused, on the ground that there were potatoes in the field. He was assured that all damages would be paid cheerfully, as the party did not wish to remain caged in the lane all night. But they could make no terms with the churl. So the gentlemen of the party proceeded to take down the bars in spite of threats of using a shotgun. They finally succeeded in getting out of the place, but they have not yet done feeling insulted and outraged by the treatment they received. The name of the boor who disgraced every Oregon farmer in the eyes of the party and their Eastern guests is Moore. Language fails one to express the amount of contempt due such a brute whose swinish nature fits him for running a hog ranch and for nothing else. Of course he never reads a paper or anything else; but the writer feels humbly confident that some friend will let him know that he is not ignored by the press.

FOR CARRYING TOO MANY PASSENGERS.—On sworn information charging that the steamship Idaho violated the passenger act by carrying on her trip from San Francisco, April 16, to Victoria, fifteen more passengers than allowed by law, U. S. District Attorney McArthur yesterday issued a warrant for her seizure. The warrant was placed in the hands of Collector of Customs Shurtleff for service. He accordingly went aboard the Idaho and having served the warrant on the captain completed the seizure by making her fast to the wharf with the flying jib downhaul or some other rope which was convenient, and placing Inspector Falling in charge. The captain had no knowledge of the number of passengers carried on the trip mentioned, neither had the purser who had joined the ship since that time. She is allowed to carry 200 passengers, and it is alleged that she had 215 on board. The captain at once wired to the owners, Goodall, Perkins & Co., of San Francisco, and the necessary bonds will probably be furnished and the ship sail to-day as intended. The name of the person making the complaint is not known. The penalty for the violation of law charged is $500.

ALASKA'S GOVERNOR.—Yesterday Governor A. P. Swineford of Alaska, arrived here over the Northern, and leaves for the North to-day. He has been East since the middle of April. He was married at Pequaning, Michigan, on the 11th inst. to Mrs. M. E. Smith. As soon as he shall have secured a comfortable dwelling at Sitka, his wife will come out. Governor Swineford spent some time in Washington trying to induce congress to pass some much needed laws for the territory. When he left he was assured that the homestead law would pass, and that an appropriation of $25,000 for educational purposes would go through with the sundry civil bill. He thinks it will only be a few years before Alaska will have a territorial government. About the only opposition he encountered in Washington was from a very influential lobbyist in the employ of the Alaska Commercial company. Gov. Swineford states that inquiries concerning Alaska by capitalists are not few, and some money will seek investment there this summer, though whether it will find investment or not is an open question.

OPENING.—For months past much interest has centered in the new store, ground floor, of Mayer's new building, First and Washington, and who was to occupy it became a standing subject. Always alive to the necessity of the hour, the enterprising firm of Wiberg & Holtbaugh, the boot and shoe dealers, had their eye on this prominent corner, and finally arranged terms with the owner. While they established a good trade on Fourth and Morrison, they still were unable to reach the public, being, in that locality, in a measure removed from the busy thoroughfare of Portland. The present change can be called a permanent one, and the firm is to be congratulated upon having a neat establishment filled to its utmost with the best lines of goods from the Eastern markets, among which may be named the manufactures of Laird, Shober & Mitchell, Holbrook's, Lilly, Brackett & Co., Hanan's, Benkert's, and a host of others. The opening took place last evening, and the reception was calculated to make the proprietors feel proud. Frank Hodabaugh, Wm. Fent, and all the old employes remain with the house.

POLICE COURT.—Yesterday E. A. Kern forfeited bail of $10 on a charge of using abusive language to C. F. Jones. The case of Edward King, of discharging firearms within the city limits, was continued for trial until to-day. Joseph Sedgmore, accused of assaulting his wife with a razor and threatening to kill her, waived examination and was held to answer before the grand jury, with bonds fixed at $300. Sedgmore was unable to find bondsmen, and in consequence was committed to the county jail. A charge of larceny against Pat Franey was dismissed. Pat Conner had Franey arrested for stealing some clothes racks. The racks were returned to Conner and he declined to prosecute. George Smith, a saloon keeper, was up on a charge of selling liquor to minors. The case has been continued from day to day for a week past, in order to secure the attendance of Dan Egan, the principal witness against Smith. Egan, however, seems to have been spirited away, as the authorities, after diligent search, fail to find him; so nothing was left but to dismiss the case.

HOPS AND HOP-PICKERS.—Capt. B. Phelps, of Silverton, Marion county, is one of the most successful hop-raisers in the state. He is also an expert in the art of drying. He has last year's crop, amounting to seventeen tons, still on hand, preserved in the best order. The prices of last year were so low that he refused to sell and time has confirmed his wisdom in doing so, as there is a certainty of selling at far higher rates. Speaking of securing pickers for this year's crop the captain says he proposes engaging the services of every white girl and boy willing to work at fair wages who may respond to his call for help. This has always been his rule and he has had no difficulty saving his hops in good season. Every hop raiser in the state should follow his example and give the boys and girls a chance in preference to hiring Chinamen. The work is light and healthful, and there is little doubt that if an effort be made enough white help can be secured to gather the entire hop crop of the state this year.

SILVER MEDAL PRIZES.—From one of the directors of the Mechanics' association we learn that it is the intention of the directory to offer three large and elegantly engraved silver medals for farm and orchard productions in this state, as follows: one for the best exhibit of grain in stalk, one for the best exhibit of grasses, and one for the best exhibit of fruit, all of this season's crop, and the specimens to be turned over to the state board of immigration at the close of the fair. Through the courtesy of the directory of this association last year the state board rooms were liberally supplied with samples, which since then have been of great value as a feature in immigration work. Those who have a desire to enter into competition for these prizes ought to begin to make a selection of the best of products.

OUT ON JAIL LIMITS.—September, 1885, Wong Hing Tong sued Dr. Wang Nung Sai in the state circuit court and subsequently obtained a judgment for $221 70. On the 9th of the present month an execution was issued for the collection of the judgment and returned unsatisfied. On the 17th inst Wang Nung Sai was arrested on a civil process and locked up in the county jail. The writ of arrest stated that on June 15, 1884, Wang Nung Sai as agent for Wong Hing Tong collected $221 70 from the Northern Pacific Express company and failed to ever account for the same. Wednesday night Wang Nung Sai's friends went bonds for him, and he was released on jail limits, which means he must not go outside of a certain boundary, and must report twice a day at the jail until further orders.

DIED IN HIS BOAT.—Lars Torsen, a native of Sweden, aged 46 years, died in his boat near the cannery of Badollett & Co., for which he was fishing, at 12:30 yesterday morning, says the Astorian. About midnight he was off Tongue point and complained to his boat puller of a pain in his heart. They started to row to a scow near by, where they hoped to get some medicine, but his strength failing him he lay down while his companion made with all speed for the cannery. Torsen gradually grew fainter and before the boat got to the landing he died. A society to which he belonged in San Francisco was telegraphed to, the answer being to bury him here. He is said to have a wife in the restaurant business in that city.

LOSS THROUGH ENFORCED IDLENESS.—Says the Oregon City Enterprise: The magnitude of the loss to this country by the unnecessary closing of the iron works at Oswego may be seen when it is known that from 1878 to 1885 this institution paid out $780,000; seventy-five per cent. of this amount was paid for labor. During the time mentioned small farmers in the neighborhood made a living selling the products of their farms to those employed in the iron works, and always got good prices. Now many of these farmers have moved away in order to be able to live. It is to be hoped that the difference between the stockholders will be speedily settled and work resumed.

TO DOUBLE PRESENT CAPACITY.—The lime manufactured by the Portland Lime & Cement company has grown so rapidly in favor that the company, with their present facilities, find it impossible to fill the orders which come pouring in from all quarters. The lime is taken away from the kiln as fast as it can be burned, and the great favor it has found is probably due in part to this fact, as the lime is used in a perfectly fresh condition, and has not been air slacked in the least, which is a great advantage to consumers. The company will at once proceed to construct another kiln, and hope very shortly to be able to fill all orders without delay.

DEEP-SEA FISHING.—The Lurline makes her usual night trip to Astoria to-morrow night, leaving Portland at 8 o'clock. The Gen. Miles will connect for Ilwaco and Tillamook rock lighthouse Sunday morning at 6:30 o'clock. The trip over the bar, down the coast to the light house, will be pleasant, as the Gen. Miles is staunch and a good sea boat. Some twenty persons have arranged to go out codfishing in the open sea.

ARRESTED FOR THEFT.—William Peek, 25 or so years of age, occupation clerk, was arrested yesterday by detective Barry, on a charge of larceny preferred by W. L. Archambeau. Lately Peek has been hanging around Beck's gun store, where he was formerly employed. It was noticed that about the time Peek would take his leave, pistols and other articles of value would mysteriously disappear, and it is supposed Peek is connected with the disappearance of the property. A shotgun was found with the young man which it is believed he stole. He will be arraigned to-day in the police court.

BLUE GRASS FROM KENTUCKY.—A quantity of Kentucky blue grass seed was received yesterday by A. H. Johnson, overland direct from Kentucky. It is to be used in seeding down for pasture forty acres of land on his farm in Washington county. It is not known that any large tracts of land in this state have been seeded with Kentucky blue grass, but its well known good qualities as a pasture grass have induced Mr. Johnson to give it a trial, to see how it will work in this climate.

TUTOR AND PUPIL MEET.—Ex-Gov. George Hoadly, of Ohio, arrived here yesterday, en route to Alaska with his family. Among the first to call on the visitor was Judge William Strong, of this city, who prepared Mr. Hoadly for college. This was at Cleveland, Ohio early in the forties. Judge Strong was then fresh from honors at Yale, studying law, and incidentally teaching. The gentlemen had not met since 1848, and the mutual warm greeting may be left to the imagination.

CHIEF JUSTICE WAITE.—The honorable Morrison R. Waite, chief justice of the United States supreme court, and Miss Waite will arrive here to-day over the Northern Pacific. They are en route to Alaska, but it is not known whether they will go right through to Victoria or remain here for two days. Saturday's train does not make connection at Tacoma for down the sound, but by leaving here Sunday, there will be time to catch the Idaho at Victoria Monday afternoon.

FIRE DEPARTMENT NOTES.—Harry Obner has resigned as foreman of the hook and ladder company, and Benjamin Woods, driver of the supply wagon, has been appointed in his stead. E. Rosenthal, extraman of No. 1's, is to drive the supply wagon, and A. Beckwith is to take his place as extraman. A new horse has been secured for hose company No. 1, and in future two horses will haul the cart instead of one.

BIG PARTY FOR ALASKA.—There are now in the city about forty Eastern tourists, who will leave to-day for Alaska, taking the Idaho at Port Townsend or Victoria. Presumably a considerable part of the large number of passengers to arrive to-day over the Northern Pacific are en route to our Northern possessions, and a right pleasant voyage may they have.

U. S. CIRCUIT COURT.—Judge Deady will deliver an opinion in this court this morning in the case of Hickox vs. Elliott, on motion to fix the amount of supersedeas bond.

FREE MILITARY CONCERT TO-NIGHT.

This evening from 7 to 9 o'clock the Fourteenth infantry band, of Vancouver, will give a concert at the plaza. The following very excellent programme will be rendered:

PIERRE MANCIET'S ESTATE

Application for the Removal of John Bigne as Executor

Recently mention was made that the St. George hotel, belonging to the estate of Pierre Manciet, deceased was to be sold by the executor, John Bigne, to satisfy an execution against the property issued out of the state circuit court. Yesterday Rachael Palicio (Manciet) filed a petition in the county court for the removal of John Bigne as executor, and asking that he be restrained from selling the property. The petition recites that Pierre Manciet died May 1 1881, and was at the time indebted in the sum of $20,000. The will provided that testator's wife, Petra Cortez Manciet, act as executrix and John Bigne as executor without bonds, the estate rents etc. to go to Petra Cortez Manciet during her lifetime and after her death to be divided between Frank Palico and Rachael Palico son and daughter by a former marriage of his wife and to his own children John, Linda, Peter Vincent, Madeleine, Pauline and Louisa. On April 19 1882, Petra Cortez Manciet died, and John Bigne continued to act as executor.

The petitioner alleges that Bigne has been unfaithful to his trust; that the partnership which has never been dissolved and a part of the debts of Manciet were Bigne's in part and that he neglected to include in the inventory his share of the liabilities. In consequence thereof the interest of Pierre Manciet in said business was never appraised; that Bigne claims that a large portion of the property is his and he has a large individual interest therein; that many of the debts are his but he intends paying them out of the estate; that he claims to own a large claim against the estate sufficient to swallow all the property; that ever since the death of Pierre Manciet Bigne has received all the proceeds and rents of the property; that he was not authorized by the will to carry on the partnership business; that during the lifetime of Manciet a partnership indebtedness of $12,000 was contracted with Ladd & Tilton; that on the 9th day of September Bigne filed a false report with the county court claiming that all debts had been paid and the estate fully administered and notice of final settlement was published but that in truth and fact said estate was not fully administered; that the mortgage of $12,000 was assigned by Ladd & Tilton to B. Verdier who brought suit to foreclose in the state circuit court and an order of foreclosure was made and the property (St. George hotel) advertised for sale; that none of the heirs of Pierre Manciet were made parties to said suit; that on a former occasion Bigne sold property belonging to the estate in Victoria and that no order authorizing the sale was ever made by court. Wherefore petitioner prays the court may make an order removing John Bigne from his said office and that he be restrained from selling or disposing of the real property of said estate until this petition shall be heard; or that he be required by order of the court to give such security for the faithful performance of the duties of said office as shall seem just and proper to the court in the premises.

THE EAST SIDE

Revival of the Dynamiters—An Aerolite in St Johns—General Items

It has been so long since an appreciative public has been amused by the entertaining exploits of the Chinese washhouse dynamiters that the fear had begun to settle down upon the community that the noble advocates of this elevating pastime had fallen into desuetude. In view of this it is refreshing to hear of the revival of the manly practice. Stephens addition to East Portland has the honor to be the scene of the resurrection. At an early hour yesterday morning the honest burghers in the vicinity of Eleventh and Washington streets were aroused from somniferous enjoyment by a terrific report. Investigation revealed the fact that a story and a half building on the corner of the streets named, occupied as a laundry, had been anti-Chinesed. Partitions were torn into smithereens, the stairway almost blown down and every window pane in the lower part of the house broken into thousands of pieces. Upon inquiry it was ascertained that some patriot had placed a heavy charge of powder under the building undoubtedly with the intent to boycott it together with the inmates. Strange to relate there were four dastardly Chinamen sleeping up stairs at the time who escaped without injury. The building was set on fire by the explosion but the inmates succeeded in putting it out before much headway had been gained. It thus appears that the end sought to be secured was unfortunately not reached. Evidently our dynamiters are becoming inexpert through lack of practice. This will never do. Baker and Cradlebaugh and Haskell and Bates should keep the fires of dexterous patriotism burning. Col Wilson ought to get up and howl. Four Mongolians unexploded are a living stain upon the agitatorial escutcheon. By the way the building is the property of S. Lowengart, but he can have little interest in the matter since there is no clue to the perpetrators.

AN AEROLITE

Elijah Byars tells of a peculiar incident which occurred in St Johns on Wednesday. He and several friends were conversing under some cherry trees, when a cry was heard from a boy who was picking fruit from one of the trees. The gentlemen looked up and saw what appeared to be a ball of fire just overhead. The object came down almost immediately at the foot of the tree in which the boy was located and in its course struck the youngster and burned part of his clothes completely off. It fell with a sizzling sound and was imbedded some feet in the earth, burning the grass in a circle several inches around and leaving a greasy substance scattered about. The object was afterwards dug up and found to be spherical and metallic. The boy was not seriously injured.

THE CAMPI RESTAURANT ROBBER

The identity of the young fellow who robbed the Campi restaurant has been pretty thoroughly established. His name is Gleved to be Scanlan, a fellow well known to the police in Portland, who was not long ago released from the city jail. Scanlan went to Salem on Wednesday and the same day a dispatch was sent asking his arrest. No reply has been received and it may therefore be concluded that the robber has gone to other parts.

NEW SASH AND DOOR FACTORY

Some East Portland capitalists are considering the question of building a large sash and door factory to be located at the corner of Fourteenth and J streets. In fact it is settled that the enterprise will be inaugurated. The projectors declare their intention of doing business on a large scale.

NOTES

THE PEND D'OREILLE MINES

METALINE July 1 1886

Since last writing I have been climbing the mountains in various directions for the purpose of examining some of the more prominent mines of this section.

The first mine which I inspected was the Caledonia, which is in the hands of Mr. Frank E. Smith of Tacoma. This ledge was discovered by Harry Neal and John Campbell about the 5th of last June. It is situate on Flume creek about one mile from the Pend d'Oreille river and about four miles north of Metaline. Flume creek runs through a steep canyon, the walls of which are perhaps 300 feet high and the Caledonian mine begins at a bend in the canyon, runs through a hill of at least 300 feet altitude along which it is easily traced for some 1500 feet showing an average width of twenty four feet and disappears in the creek below the bend carrying the same grade of ore and width of seam into and across the creek. So far as quantity of mineral is concerned there can be no lack of supply. It is practically limitless, and upon the other side of the creek the vein is continued and a mine called the Chieftain has been already located. The samples of this ore which were taken hence by Mr Smith were not up to the average of the body of the mine and the indications which result from a more complete inspection point to a rich extent of a grade which will pay fairly if reduced here but which will not bear the cost of transportation under the present unsatisfactory conditions which surround communication with railroad points.

THE BLACKBIRD MINE

Recently found by Mr Charles Connor, an old Colorado miner, was the next one which I visited. It is distant about one half mile from the Caledonia farther from the river and [illegible] the crest of the hill which here is 400 feet above sea level and 600 above the river at its nearest point. This ledge shows carbonates and sulphurets but up to date the result of the assays has not reached us, therefore it is impossible to state the value of the ore. The body of ore is immense; in fact the whole country for 100 miles along the river beginning at the head of the Calispell and running down to the Columbia is one vast range of mineral, galena being the chief constituent; limestone and slate contact is common.

PLACER MINES

Are a very prominent feature in the Pend d'Oreille district and in a quiet way considerable money is being taken out by old prospectors. Upon Sullivan creek about one mile from Metaline down and across the river there are [illegible] rich placers but they have not been properly handled from the fact that the miners have not been able to purchase material necessary [illegible] the proper working of the [illegible]. The work is done in the crudest possible manner. The gold pan is the chief factor but [illegible] Several of these pans are [illegible] day to the [illegible] and it is easy [illegible] much greater [illegible] would be [illegible] properly flumed [illegible] worked [illegible]

The bed of Sullivan creek [illegible] is reached from [illegible] to April [illegible] water is low. During [illegible] mentioned [illegible] is not over [illegible] fathoms, a quantity [illegible] but after [illegible] spring rise it becomes a rushing torrent and [illegible] beyond control.

Sixteen miles from Metaline [illegible] river [illegible] is the Salmon river which is entirely [illegible] Columbia. This river was worked for [illegible] mining about twenty years [illegible] it was [illegible] Silver found [illegible] for miles [illegible] are [illegible] looked of for some time [illegible] accomplished [illegible] miners who [illegible] say that the capital [illegible] who first [illegible] to mine and who carries out the [illegible] himself comfortable for life. I hope the [illegible] expectations may be [illegible]

[illegible] more thoroughly convinced [illegible] has not been properly prospected.

I find that I, knowing very little about mineral, have nothing to learn amongst the miners here, for no two ever agree as to the constituents of any specimen. Of course, climbing the mountains is hard work (actual experience under a July sun moves me to say this) but I cannot avoid thinking that our miners here are afraid they might find something. To write exact facts is a thankless task, as a rule, but it is much better to tell things as they are.

THE RARE COMBINATION

Of mineral and grazing country offered by the Pend d'Oreille country should make it one of the richest districts in the Northwest, for nowhere can a better climate be found and it is impossible to overrate the chances offered to the energetic settler.

Since last writing young cattle in considerable numbers have been driven into the ranges back of the Calispell and the prospects for a thorough settlement of the valley are brightening every day. I look upon the agricultural future of the district as already assured and when capital finds sufficient inducement to take an interest in the production of the precious metals, this part of the world will have a steady progress upward. We have no facilities for forwarding or receiving mail and are sometimes without letters for six weeks at a time.

PRODUCE RECEIPTS—Past twenty four hours 420 ctls wheat, 408 bbls flour, 200 ctls millstuff, 54 cs eggs, 11 bxs fruit, 3 cs butter, 59 hogs. Also 2725 ctls wheat, 100 bbls flour, 39,768 lbs wool, 1661 lbs hides, 3 bxs fruit from the eastern section.

FREIGHTS—In the week the River Clyde came in open. The Alliance, Bebington, Beemah and Nith have completed cargoes or cleared. On spot the Beech Holm secured business and the Cumbrian was rechartered, the latter for flour. Both are iron, the Cumbrian having short lay days, and understood to have accepted 38s 3d for orders, a rate deemed rather below the market. Yesterday the Shakespeare, handy iron, was taken up, understood to be at 40s for orders. From 38s 6d to 40s is the market, but owners demand the extreme and are not offering, fall arrival below that figure. At present there is nothing doing in to arrive because of the difference in the views of shippers and owners.

WHEAT—Receipts for the week were 91 tons valley and [illegible] tons Walla Walla, arrivals of the latter grade being increased over the preceding week. The selling movement just now is slow although a very fair stock is conceded to be in the interior. Millers' wants may be described as almost nothing at the moment, with shippers are calling for no particular quantity. A dull but steady local market is to be reported, quotations being $1 12½ @1 15 for valley and $1 0[illegible] to $1 10 for Walla Walla, something between the extremes representing the general idea. From abroad the latest advices are of fair tenor, the situation apparently strengthening itself in the week. There is a reduction in the quantity afloat for the United Kingdom that brings the figures down to those of last year this time, but the total afloat is larger because of there being more headed for the continent. Unfavorable growing weather in England and France continues and country markets are firmer. At the close of June India was shipping liberally and the apparent large quantity at the Atlantic seaboard prohibited any fear that there would be material reduction in available supplies before harvest. Complaints with regard to British and French crops continue serious, and the harvest in both countries will be two to three weeks late. It is conceded that both countries will harvest less than they did last year. Holland and Belgium grow very little wheat, but their crops are unpromising. Germany will have a good harvest of wheat and rye. Winter wheat in Northern Russia shows another failure but the spring wheat which is less important may turn out well. For some months very little wheat has been shipped from the southern ports but crop prospects there are not as bad as they have been painted, the outlook in the Odessa and Dnieper regions being considered more favorable than in the year past. New York and Chicago during the week have shown no marked value changes. In certain portions of what is commonly termed the Northwest very hot weather has hurt wheat. There is talk of a prominent shortage in Dakota over last year, Duluth people believing it to be ten million bushels. Wisconsin is reporting marked damage and Minnesota's prospects are not the best. During the past week the bureau of agriculture sent out a supplementary July report explaining the conclusions arrived at in the report of July 1 telegraphed July 10. The average is 8[illegible] for winter, and 83.3 spring, the spring average for last July being 96 and falling to 80 at time of harvest.

POTATOES—Early Rose by steamer sold at $1 10, choice Garnets higher. The range for new Oregon is $1 10@1 25. Some sweets by steamer sold at 7@8c.

ONIONS—Market steady at 1¼c for California.

HAY—Best new has sold from wagons at $9 50 @11, but offerings have not been important. Choice old can still be had for $7 50@9 by dealers. A crop of fair proportions is being harvested.

BUTTER—Yesterday's steamer brought several lots of solid, a part of which was for city account. Local receipts of this kind have not equaled demands, but there is plenty of poor to common in rolls. Choice brine is asked for at 12½@15c and choice roll at 15@17½c.

POULTRY—At a time when more than the usual care should be taken in shipping, arrivals are in poor shape. The loss by reason of crowded coops has been marked during the week. For chickens the call is good at $2 50@3 50. Other poultry dull and nominal as last quoted.

EGGS—Receipts for the week not especially heavy, but demands fell away and the market leaves off weak at 18c. At present stocks are not heavy, the request keeping them within working limits, and unless there is some decided change in receipts or demand prices will not change for the worse.

MARKETS BY TELEGRAPH.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, July 22.—Governments were quiet but steady to-day. Stocks are still principally in the hands of room traders. Lake Shore continued this morning to be the chief center of interest, although the other Vanderbilts received more attention than usual of late. The coal stocks were inclined to be heavy throughout the day, but the announcement of the increase in the actual price of coal in the afternoon stimulated buying and there was an improvement. Northern Pacific stocks and Oregon Transcontinental became the features of the market late in the day on the belief that the land sales recently talked of would surely be carried through. The market was steady at the opening, the first prices generally being within ¼ per cent of last evening's figures. Very little movement in price took place until late in the day when material advances were made in some directions, the major portion of which was lost just previous to the close, which was steady. The closing prices show irregular changes, but are higher in a majority of cases.

The Mail and Express says: There is a slight change in prices and only a small business doing in mining stocks sales. Sierra Nevada 90c, Union Consolidated 70c, Yellow Jacket $1 25, Standard 85c, Hale & Norcross $2 75@2 60, California & Virginia $1 55@1 65, Bodie $1 70@1 65, Navajo 75c, Bulwer 8c, Oriental & Miller 7c.
